VIEWING ROOM

Welcome to Viewing Room 2019

The Viewing Room was introduced in the 2011 edition of Film Bazaar. The aim of the Viewing Room is to present Indian and South Asian films that are recently completed or in the final stages of editing and post-production to buyers, film programmers, distributors, world sales agents and investors at Film Bazaar.

These films are viewed on individual computer terminals in private booths via the Viewing Room software that has been exclusively designed for this purpose. Delegates with Viewing Room access can watch complete films, retrieve details of the films as well as contact the directors or producers through this software.

The films presented are seeking finishing funds, world sales, distribution partners and selection in film festivals.

This catalogue contains information on these films divided into three main categories:

Film Bazaar Recommends (FBR) – Film Bazaar Recommends, as the name suggests, is a curated section of films selected from the total feature film submissions to Viewing Room. FBR films in Viewing Room are looking for either or all of the three main criteria i.e. Gap Financing, Distribution & Sales and Film Festivals. Many of them are also looking for finishing funds.

These films are absolutely fresh; most are works in progress, unreleased and are yet to have their world premiere at any film festival. Most of the films in this section are having their first market screening at this Film Bazaar.

This year we have 26 films in the FBR section.

Film Library (FL) – All feature length submissions to Viewing Room are showcased in a section called Film Library, which includes both Fiction and Documentary Features.

This year we have 154 films in the Film Library Section.

Short Films (SF) – All submitted films under the duration of 60 minutes are in this category.

This year we have 59 short films in this section.

A total of 213 films are presented in Viewing Room this year.

The team for this segment consists of

Deepti DCunha      Consultant and Programmer for Viewing Room at NFDC Film Bazaar since 2011

Abhra Das          Programming Coordinator for Viewing Room since 2015

Parth Vyas and      Assistant Programming Coordinators for Vishnu Bagdawala   Viewing Room

The central characters of 1956, Central Travancore are two siblings, Onan and Kora. Kora runs away from the family home immediately after his first child is born. In search of his brother, Onan reaches the high ranges of Central Travancore, where a vast majority of the land is still unoccupied by humans. He finds his brother after a year of search, doing random work to survive during the course of that year. The contrast between the natures of these two brothers is also the contrast in struggle between freedom and duty. This can be observed in both of them. Onan recollects an early conversation with a bunch of friends and inspires Kora to gather a few men to go for hunting. When the real and imagined nature turn out to be larger than their will and strength can handle, they learn the harsh realities of the endeavor they have taken up.

Abharkha literally translates to desire – a strong feeling of wanting something. The story travels through the journey of two characters, Milan and Mira, where we find childish affection, the needs of a capitalistic village and a women's will to hide and fight. Milan is a quiet and an aloof kid. He shares a very unique bond with his mother and a blind teacher at his school whom he calls Girish sir. They guide him through life in their own simple ways.

Mira is a woman who is battling her personal and professional life all by herself. We understand her resilience to hold on patiently as she is isolated in her journey of marriage. The story is in small moments of cries, whispers and smiles through Milan's constant struggle and Mira's hope. Their struggles might be a success or a failure, but eventually the story lies in the moments in between.

Two Friends

Bengali | India
Fiction | 118 mins

Available for a World Premiere

The aftermath of Babri Masjid demolition in 1992-93 found its violent echoes even in the remote village of a border district in West Bengal where our story unfolds. This is the story of two young boys belonging to two warring religious communities. Palash is the son of a Brahmin while Safikul is the son of a Muslim weaver. The innocence of the boys receives its sustenance from nature. The greenery of the village, the river Padma and the vast stretches of paddy fields playfully rebound the echoes of their voices and their laughter. But then one day, out of the blue, death makes the cruelest choice of a victim. Palash dies in a storm on a rainy evening. The world comes crushing on Safikul. This unanticipated event gives a cathartic trajectory to the entire story. A singular human loss unravels a universal truth about human nature.

Gamak Ghar

Maithili | India
Fiction | 90 mins

Available for an International Premiere

In a North Indian village, a family reunites at their ancestral house to celebrate a new birth in the family. It's a joyous occasion. Over the next two decades, through festivals and feasts, births and deaths, the film observes the house as it ages. It speaks of the relentlessness of the passage of time, inevitably affecting familial ties.

Ghar ka Pata

Home Address

English, Hindi, Kashmiri | India
Documentary | 75 mins

Available for a World Premiere

This film is an autobiographical account of my enquiry into my identity as a Kashmiri Pandit in the absence of my own memory. My family left Kashmir in early 1990s as a part of the Pandit exodus due to the armed insurgency. I was six years old at the time and therefore grew up remembering nothing of my home. 24 years later, I went to Kashmir for the first time with my family. That event acted as a catalyst for me to rediscover and retrace my roots with the help of my sisters and extended family.

This film is a search through a series of interviews, archival footage, home videos and a journey into Kashmir as I reconstruct the forgotten home of my childhood. We hear oral accounts of a less documented event and time in the history of Kashmir which reveals the deep connections that go beyond religion and politics. At a personal level, it reveals the cruelty of exile and how it continues across generations.

Hasina: A Daughter's Tale

Bengali | Bangladesh
Documentary | 72 mins

Set in the backdrop of the most complex delta on earth, Hasina: A Daughter's Tale is an ambitious attempt to analyze and document the persona of an iconic political figure, Prime Minister of Bangladesh, Sheikh Hasina.

The docu-drama begins with the heinous assassination of her father in 1975, shows her family's change in fortune, her dramatic rise to power and rise and fall of a powerhouse family in the context of a daughter's narrative.

An intriguing and personal look at a unique world leader of the third world, it is ultimately a humane depiction of a daughter's triumph-tragedy-trauma-betrayal that puts forward the land of Bengal and Bengalis.

In Love With Gulaab

Bhojpuri | India
Fiction | 114 mins

Available for a World Premiere

To love is to suffer. - Woody Allen

When prison inmates Ishwar (55) and Gulab (25) meet, they bond over their deep love for folk songs. Ishwar, a convicted murderer, finally walks out of the jail after 12 years of imprisonment. But he never forgets Gulab. He takes a trip to a village named Chainpur on the banks of river Bagmati where villagers are being forced to move because of a dam project Pariyojana. This is where Gulab lives. He earns his living here as a Lounda – someone who dresses as a woman to entertain people with his singing and dancing. This is a love story saga set in the backdrop of Bihar, beautiful folk songs and colorful people. But will it all be unicorns and rainbows? Will their love endure all the sufferings?

Kastoori

The Musk

Hindi, Marathi | India
Fiction | 100 mins

Available for an International Premiere

The film is based on real life events of a 14 year old boy, who has to engage in manual scavenging and sometimes has to assist his alcoholic father during post-mortem in a hospital. He struggles for his education. Because of his profession and the smell of his body and clothes, he faces ridicule and prejudice from his classmates. To get rid of the smell, he comes across the scent of kastoori (musk) and loves it. He works overtime to buy kastoori and manages to do it. But it turns out to be a fake. On Republic Day, he has to carry out a post-mortem and is not able to reach his school to receive a district level award in Sanskrit. Because of these events and guidance by a social worker, he realizes that he doesn't need kastoori or scent to remove others' prejudice towards him. His search for kastoori leads him to himself and he finds it in himself. Thus he starts his journey toward self-discovery.

Nasir

Tamil | India, Netherlands
Fiction | 80 mins

Available for a World Premiere

Nasir is a salesman who lives a contended life with his mother Fatima, wife Taj and nephew Iqbal in a closely populated ghetto. Employed in an apparel shop, the middle aged Nasir is a hard worker, speaks humorously and is also endowed with a half-baked philosophical attitude. That is why he likes poetry as well. He smokes ten beedis a day, drinks four cups of tea and goes for his midday prayers occasionally. Nasir's chronicle emerges through the span of one particular day. We find him to be a nimble romantic, marshalling a love for song, children, friendship, and even God to rise into something resembling a life well lived.

The Tremor

Tamil | India
Fiction | 80 mins

Available for a World Premiere

A journalist is sent to cover a massive earthquake that has allegedly destroyed an entire village. Being his first big assignment, he is worried and anxious to land the story before his peers. The journey takes him from one village to another through ghastly ravines and ghost towns. As the pursuit takes mysterious twists and turns, the location of the calamity gets increasingly elusive.

'The Tremor' is an atmospheric mystery that takes us through hairpin bends and idyllic mountain villages that thrive on folklore and hearsay. The journalistic investigation leads to answers that question the line between fact and myth, truth and sensationalism.

The Wayfarers

Hindi | India
Fiction | 85 mins

Nathuni and Lakhua are driven by hunger to the nearest town. Nathuni has a paralytic husband and two children, while Lakhua is a loner, perpetually on the fringes of survival. The sheer act of sharing a journey brings them closer. They share their life-stories. While they speak, the monsoon clouds overpower the sky and they encounter Chopatlal, who is carrying an ailing old couple to the hospital. His vehicle is stuck in the mud and no one helps him, till the two of them come to his rescue. They endanger their own survival, but a sense of purpose propels them to use the last iota of their strength to push the vehicle through mud, impassable in torrential rain. It is an epic journey through relentless monsoon and breathtaking nature.

Shankar's Fairies

Hindi | India
Fiction | 85 mins

Available for a World Premiere

This story is about the relationship between a little girl and a man from a village who is their family servant. Through them, we see two utterly divided worlds of city and village, education and illiteracy, master and servant, child and adult. The story is set in Lucknow in 1962, on a lovely Cantonment estate, with scenes from Shankar's village. Shankar is a trained cook and a perfect butler who is always full of stories. The little girl has a fertile imagination because of her interest in fairy tales and the stories that Shankar weaves for her. Shankar's unspoken tragedy is that he has left his family behind. His daughter dies, as many village children do. The stories he tells about the fairies exist only in his fantasy world. Though in a sense, these stories are about the two girls who are like daughters to him – his own daughter and the daughter of his master. Unfortunately, one dies and the other is doomed to drift away as she grows up.

Allahabad is in the throes of change as a new era sets in with the city being renamed. Looking at development in the eye, an ailing Madhav Chatterjee battles to keep his decrepit single screen theatre alive. His daughter Mampu tends to her father, but finds him immersed in the past. The theatre contains within its crumbling walls an entire childhood and her most anchored friendship. Much like a river disappearing, the gentle flow of memories are held ransom by demands of the present. As the last few strands of her identity trickle out of the theatre, Mampu struggles to find a sense of belonging in her shapeshifting hometown.

Sthalapuram

Marathi | India
Fiction | 80 mins

Available for a World Premiere

Sthalapuram is a portrait of child-like innocence. It is a portrait of the process of growing up every day, comprehending the inevitable cycle of life and death, subsuming the many known and few unknown wonders of nature. Amidst the torrential rain and roaring sea, Dighu, an eight year old boy migrates to the coastal area of Konkan. In a vain attempt of forgetting the shadows of past experiences, coping up with the lingering absence of his father and accepting it haplessly, the multiple hues of Dighu's delicate childhood unfold in front of us.

He is trying to comprehend the incomprehensible nature of these occurrences. Echoes of this inner struggle reflect in his tiny diary, where he writes: In the wee hours of yesterday's night, when only silence reigns supreme, mother was crying. To all the suffocating chaos that is engulfing him, he responds to it with muted silence.

Y

Marathi | India
Fiction | 152 mins

Available for an International Premiere

What happens when a couple decides to do something barbarous in their ninth month of pregnancy? What happens when a husband himself cons his wife? What happens when a medical professional sheds his ethics entirely just to earn an extra penny, to the extent that he doesn't even shy away from homicides? And, what happens when a woman solely fights against all such evils, mentalities and the system itself and eventually turns a torchbearer? Y is a social thriller. It is a riveting collage of four different yet interconnected stories. The film unfolds the multiple facets and brutal underbelly of a heinous practice from the time of advent of technological advancements in the field of medicine.

The story begins in a residential society wherein both old and young people live. The protagonist Sumit often gets irritated and disturbed by the nagging behavior of old people in his neighborhood and keeps having arguments with them. His sister-in-law Aashi whom he loves is involved in the welfare and care of the elderly. The story revolves around how Aashi leads him to change his attitude once he realizes the root cause of the problems of the elderly, which is loneliness. Together they decide to open a day care center for them. The day care center provides them with a place to enjoy themselves and have fun in each other's company. The title indicates that 10 years that may be left for you to live will look like 40 if spent in happiness. The film emphasizes that one should not retire from living life till the heart beats and limbs move.

A Few Days More

English | India

Documentary | 51 mins Available for an International Premiere

The film takes us through the story of a family, which is struggling to put up a spirited fight to save a loved one, who is, all of a sudden, diagnosed with brain cancer. The narration throws light on various medical, social, psychological, emotional, financial and spiritual challenges faced by the protagonist and his family in dealing with the situation. In the process, the film tries to show up the underbelly of modern day technology-overloaded cancer management ecosystem. It explores the reasons for the differential attitude of the medical fraternity towards the less glamorous and more humane practice like palliative care, which aims at treating the person in a holistic manner rather than focusing only on the disease by using aggressive and expensive technologically overloaded medical techniques.

In Bihar, where Sarkar mera bada bhai hai... (The government is my older brother) is the righteous response to why one illegally acquires electricity connections or not pay bills, a team of academics working on the ground to activate RLSS - the Revenue Linked Supply Scheme are met with various degrees of opposition and success. The film explores the complex relationships people have with the State through the lens of electricity. Is it a right? Or is it a commodity? In a country with limited resources, can it be a social right if the government needs funds to keep the grid functional? And if so, can the normalization of non-payment of bills be reversed? Is it possible to create an ideal citizenry?

A world obsessed with social media and its five seconds of fame; a country obsessed with Bollywood – every struggler wants to be the next superstar; a city obsessed with ambition. Piyali, a casting director in Bollywood, is obsessed with social media. Akshay is a man from the mountains, questioning his and everyone's existence. The two meet one night on a blind date at Piyali's house. The plot moves forward with the juxtaposition of fiction and non-fiction. Piyali is amongst thousands of girls surviving in a big city on her own. The city is shaping her, the bombardment of everything on social media is making her who she is. Is this bombardment and alienation the reason live suicides on Facebook are increasing? Piyali's house that was shut for months gets inhabited by a struggler who looks like Akshay. Americano questions life, death, dreams and ambition. It poses the question – are we the same people with the same emotions, moving in and out of the same spaces?

Broken Kundalini is the story of Maya, the daughter of a Bene Israeli Jewish painter David and Brahmin mother Kaveri. Maya gets her heart broken by Ravi who forces her to end the relationship instead of proposing marriage. Discouraged, Maya tries to find the truth of male and female relations as Kundalini. She travels across India and Nepal to understand her cultural identity. In this process, she studies Kundalini principles in sensuality. She finds the common link between Brahma in Hinduism and Abraham in Judaism. Symbolism in Hindu-Buddhist Tantra art and the Star of David in Judaism makes her realize the power of spirituality. Through the broken relation with her boyfriend Ravi, Maya's journey as a Jewish Hindu girl shows complex thought process to overcome with Kundalini power in symbolism. Maya narrates her experience in discrimination of racism while she embrace absolute spirituality.

Amanda Wright, an Anglo-Indian music teacher, is content with her work and life in Coonoor. When she is diagnosed with multiple sclerosis (MS), a chronic illness that could eventually damage the nerves in her spinal cord and brain, Amanda is jolted out of her peaceful lifestyle. A powerful urge to hug her grand-daughter, whom she has never met, overwhelms her. She makes up her mind to go to Chennai, where her estranged daughter lives, and she decides to go by road on her trusted bicycle! Col. Ajay Varma, a friend of hers, tries his best to dissuade her, but she says: I need to prove to myself I can do it! It's my way of making amends with my daughter and grand-daughter... When she reaches Chennai and finds out that her grand-daughter lives in Kolkata, she pushes herself to continue her journey to West Bengal, where a rude shock awaits her.

Chidi Balla

Smash

Hindi, Rajasthani | India
Fiction | 112 mins

In the 1990s, Principal of Shekhawati High School in Fatehpur, Rajasthan is faced with the daunting task of saving the school from shutting down. The only way he can save the school is by improving its academic results, which is impossible in a village that gambles and fritters away their time. The other option is to somehow inspire the school to win the State Level Badminton Tournament.

The Principal summons Bhagat and explains to him about the crisis faced by the school. Bhagat who enjoys playing Chidi Balla (colloquial term for a casual game of shuttle-cock usually played with make-shift equipment and court) with his gang and has no idea about badminton, is suddenly burdened with the responsibility of saving his school. Without formal training, proper resources or even a coach, can Bhagat transform his game of Chidi Balla to Badminton and triumph against all odds to save his school?

Chintu Ka Birthday

Chintu's Birthday

Arabic, English, Hindi | India
Fiction | 84 mins

In the middle of the US-Iraq war, one hot day in April, 2004, an endearing Indian family, who are illegal immigrants in Baghdad, prepare to celebrate the birthday of their youngest member, six year old Chintu. Their kind-hearted Iraqi landlord, a man with a troubled and mysterious past, lends them a helping hand. Chintu has invited 25 of his friends. But with the war ongoing around them, only a couple manage to reach, including an Iraqi street-kid who sells hash and porn videos on the city streets. Will the entry of two uninvited guests, soldiers from the American Special Forces, ruin the birthday party and deprive Chintu of the moment of joy he deserves? As the violence that rages in the world outside enters this family's home, they all become witness to how the power of hope and goodness can triumph over incessant hate.

Dahokaal is a story of love, hate, revenge and innocence lost amidst the chaos and savagery of war. The story unfolds through the eyes of an innocent boy, Jamil, who is our protagonist and how he absorbs the day-to-day barbaric acts of the so-called humans around him during wartime. Through his eye we see the struggle of regular Bengali families in former East Pakistan from 1952 to 1971. Families were broken because of partition but there was still a bond which had remained between people. But the imposed radicalization by Pakistan ruined the whole communities, even in a small suburban city like Pabna where Jamil's family is residing. In this story, the Pakistani army or the collaborators are external enemies, but the greater enemies turn out to be those who betray their own family, when it needs them the most. This story is more about the common people rather than heroes who suffered and suffocated because of war.

Haryanvi | India
Fiction | 104 mins

Available for a World Premiere

Ramesh lives in the city, while his two elder brothers, Suneel and Dilbagh, live in the village. One day Neelam, who is Suneel's wife, demands partition of the household after a fight with Dilbagh's wife Sunita. This news gives the hitherto indifferent Ramesh sleepless nights. He has nightmares of Suneel and Neelam burying Dilbagh in the ground. While going to the village, he becomes nostalgic as he remembers the various occasions when Dilbagh and Sunita had taken care of him and Suneel - playing blind man's bluff, celebrating Holi, going to the village fair, taking evening walks in the fields, playing antakshari. He remembers the time Dilbagh had sold his scooter for Ramesh's college fees. Meanwhile, Suneel and Neelam constantly disrespect Dilbagh and Sunita, causing them immense grief. Dilbagh gets so sad that he breaks into tears alone in the fields. On the other hand, Ramesh's wife Mamta has selfish schemes about selling their portion of lands. Will love conquer greed, or will greed overpower love?

What forms our political opinions – the internet, the books we read, or the life we live? Inspired by his internet girlfriend, commodity broker Ritwik sets off on his motorcycle to attend an electronic music festival somewhere in the mountains of Uttarakhand. At a small dhaba on the way, Ritwik comes across Stephany, an Indo-German girl. An internet breakdown compels the two of them to team up. They must depend on locals to navigate their way through what becomes a journey of self-realization and acceptance.

A crazy monk, political hooligans, a quirky musician, a variety of whacky locals – each encounter opens their eyes to new perspectives and brings them closer despite their personal, political and ideological differences.

Amidst this mayhem called life, what leads one to listen to his inner calling or to follow his passion? Dhunchakkar is a crazy, whacky, fast-paced, romantic musical adventure.

Dhyamna

The Unscrupulous Jerk

Bengali | India
Fiction | 102 mins

Available for a World Premiere

It is about Shyamal, the middle-aged director himself who's been trying to shoot a poetic documentary on a few families who fled from riverine East-Pakistan fifty years back during Bangladesh liberation war. They made a sewerage their shanty settlement. Their love and procreation bloom in spite of the polluted hellhole. The director has been following a young girl for 12 years, since she was 14, through her various broken and exploitative relationships and neighbourhood. One day she refuses to be part of the film anymore. He's told by his crew-members that this kind of 'poverty porn is passé' and he has to show something new to shock the audience.

The film is an intimate combination of documentary and fiction where the director is trying to make sense of himself. The nuanced but naive and simplistic man that he was, to the wily cynical and miserable over-the-hill director he has become.

Displacement & Resilience: women live for a new day is a documentary on the worldwide refugee crisis, an outcome of war and polarization of people. This documentary engages with the experiences of women refugees. Produced by the International Association of Women in Radio & Television (IAWRT), it tells the stories of women from Philippines, Myanmar, Tibet and Syria who were forced to flee from their homes.

The subject was proposed by Chandita Mukherjee, who worked as the Executive Producer on the film. Six collaborating women directors contributed stories to the film - Erika Rae Cruz, on displaced indigenous people in Philippines; Archana Kapoor and Chandita Mukherjee on Rohingyas in India; Afrah Shafiq on Tibetans in India; Khedija Lemkecher on Syrians in Tunisia; and Eva Anandi Brownstein on Syrians in Canada.

The film's focus is the resilience of women refugees, who have to sustain their families through traumatic experiences to a meaningful future.

Ramji, a humble iron-smith from a small village, is a devotee of Lord Vitthal. For years he has followed the Waarkari (a devotional sect) tradition of going on a pilgrimage with thousands of other devotees. His world comes crashing down after his only son drowns in a flooding river. Ramji is not only sad but also angry at God. He and his friends are trying to make sense of the tragedy. One rainy night, unfolds a tale of grief and ecstasy - where the seeming opposites just collapse and dissolve into the oneness of being. Life offers Ramji a chance to 'see' the non-duality of birth and death, and make peace with his grief.

The story of Baghdadi Jews of Calcutta begins with a diary entry, Last night I arrived in Calcutta, made 220 years back by Shalome Ben Cohen. The community that Cohen established, prospered in the capital city of British India. They spoke in Arabic, prayed in Hebrew and led a kosher life. Jewish population in Calcutta rose to 4000 in the 1940s as Calcutta gave shelter to Jews persecuted in Europe and Asia. But the community started dwindling after World War Two and after Israel was formed. Today, as many of the founding fathers of the Jewish community rest eternally at the Narkeldanga Cemetery, their descendants have found new homes all over the globe. Dwelling in Travelling is a defining identity of the Baghdadi Jews of Calcutta. It dwells on memories and nostalgia, and celebrates the traditions that once held the community together.

In today's rapidly changing world, with a life full of stress, with its changing lifestyle, every individual struggles to perceive his/her own existence in the world. By this, if today's youth gets diverted from their desired goals, who is to be questioned or to be blamed for it? The common people like you and me who still struggle to accomplish our goals, or the parents who keep too many hopes and expectations from today's youth? So is it the irresponsible youth or the so-called responsible parents? It is an emotional film about a relationship between two generations, the confrontation and many more other aspects. The film deals with a sensitive issue and the relationship that families are unable to deal with. The film revolves around a relationship, with a focus on the parents-children connection. And it emphasizes the importance of communication. Maintaining harmony between a child and a parent is important in today's life.

Hariva Nadige Maiyella Kaalu

A Running River Is All Legs

Kannada | India
Fiction | 92 mins

Available for a World Premiere

The film is a meditation on the act of walking through the lives of the three principal characters. Kumar, a photo journalist, disenchanted with his regular job visits different places seeking other sources of inspiration. Neelu works in a shoe shop and follows a set routine. Her only interest seems to be in watching people walk and the footwear they have on. Amaresha is an elderly prisoner, who alleviates his fears and feelings of confinement by walking to imaginary places within his cell. We follow the gaze of the characters, trained to different directions of the ground, horizon and sky, experiencing how they relate to the world around, the minute details they observe and their sense of time and place. The film is a subtle exploration of the inner and outer landscape, of dream and reality.

House Owner

Tamil | India
Fiction | 105 mins

House Owner is inspired by true life incidents and real life characters. The film discusses the unconditional love and companionship between an aged couple in the backdrop of a harrowing incident during Chennai floods which happened in 2015.

Colonel Vasudevan and his wife Radha live in their dream house in Defence officer's colony. The unprecedented rains takes the city by surprise. It is all the more difficult for Mrs Vasudevan as she is the caregiver for Colonel, who is struggling with Alzheimer's. She single-handedly braves the challenges for 24 hours. The undercurrent of the impending calamity is evident and the last 20 minutes of the film is an edge of the seat, action packed sequence. The film also portrays the socio-cultural backdrop of a set of Tamils settled in Palakkad, Kerala.

Hum Bhi Akele, Tum Bhi Akele

I Am Alone, So Are You

Hindi | India
Fiction | 92 mins

Available for a World Premiere

Life is dull, for the most part. But every once in a while, there comes a moment that makes a mark, a day that changes the course of our respective paths. The film begins on one such day when a girl from Meerut – Mansi – and a boy from Chandigarh – Veer – run away from their respective homes on their wedding day and bump into each other at a club in Delhi. A friendship begins between them. Mansi acknowledges of being a lesbian and blabs her entire life story over countless bottles of beer. Veer pours his heart out as well and their bond deepens. As if fate had destined them to spend more time together, they both end up being on a road trip together from Delhi to Mcleodgunj - to surprise Mansi's girlfriend Nikki. It's a trip that will turn their life upside down and makes them understand what real love is.

The story revolves around a girl who has grown up living in Himachal Pradesh, Kanpur, Delhi and finally living in Benares. Andrew is a foreigner and a writer who meets Draupadi while learning Sitar there. During their many meetings, Draupadi narrates to Andrew the life she has led and shares with him her three love stories.

Draupadi is a very different girl who has understood life based on her experiences. She is an artist and has come to a realization that it is her body that has always been the reason of her heartbreak. She is living alone in Benares and is trying to resolve the conflict between love and body. Andrew, after meeting Draupadi, feels very curious about her life and reflects upon his own life alongside his sitar, Harsh and the geography of Benares.

Naren Upadhyay wakes up inside a wall, behind the concrete. With terror, he realizes he has been plastered within these walls. There is a digital clock counting down from ninety minutes and his mobile phone has no network. There's not enough air for him to live long, and every fifteen minutes the walls come a little closer than before. The lady abductor starts speaking to him within the walls. Naren realizes the timer to be a communication device which allows a limited number of calls. Trilok, the crime branch officer suspects the timer to be a bomb - which may go off when it runs out. The abductor is not interested in his money as the transfer has gone to charity. The lady in the speaker slowly breaks down this big bad wolf of politics, starting with, "Why do you think you are here Naren?"

Assamese | India
Fiction | 92 mins

16 year old Jahnu lives in a small village on the banks of the river Brahmaputra. The villagers mock him for the femininity that he proudly wears on his body. Jahnu dreams of getting an operation and becoming a woman. Jahnu's sister Jumu has decided never to come out with her homosexuality to protect her parent's reputation in the village. Jahnu and Jumu's elder brother 'Baba' is extremely unhappy about gender nonconformist siblings who he thinks have made their family notorious. Jahnu's life takes a drastic turn when his romantic relationship with Palash catches attention of the villagers. Baba thrashes Jahnu and throws her out of the house, and taking advantage of the situation, a neighbour sexually assaults Jahnu. Humiliated and broken, Jahnu joins the Hijra community of the city and continues her journey as Jahnavi irrespective of a world standing against her unapologetic claims of being different.

Josef - Born In Grace

Hindi | India
Fiction | 100 mins

Available for a World Premiere

Josef - Born in Grace is an adaptation of a short story Joseph written by Umakanta Mahapatra and is set in the foothills of Himalayas in India.

Father O'Hara (Victor Banerjee), a missionary doctor with the help of his caretaker Maularam (Sudarshan Juyal), raises an orphan baby Joseph (Hitesh Bisht). While still a young boy, Joseph is sent to Dehradun for his studies and vocational training. Joseph (Subrat Dutta) returns with a reputation as a great cook as well as his love for alcohol.

The film explores in its unfolding of time, the different paths that Father O'Hara, Joseph, and Maularam take in their respective journeys for spiritual fulfillment through memories, duty, and search as well as their interaction with friends and acquaintances. Through static mise en scene, the narrative of the film reflects the all-encompassing nature of time, pre-empting and repeating itself in allegorical hues.

Jwlwi - The Seed

Bodo | India
Fiction | 90 mins

Available for an International Premiere

Set in Assam's insurgency ridden decades beginning from the 90s, Jwlwi- The Seed is the story of hope, lost and found through resolute perseverance even in the face of seemingly insurmountable odds. Alaari copes with her husband's death for over a decade who was killed in a cross firing between rebel cadres and state forces. A new concern emerges for her in the form of Erak, who is now all grown up, when the political climate is heating up with renewed efforts to rebel against the majoritarian state. New reports of young Bodo youth joining the separatist movement inspired in their revolutionary zeal by iconic leaders such as Mao and Guevara gain momentum yet again. Will this impressionable boy fall under the influence of the rebels? Will he too feel that he can free the community from generations of oppression through the barrel of a gun?

For Abhi and Divya, moving to an exotic country with an alien culture is both stressful and exciting. Their ten year marriage, strained in the past, seemed to be doing better lately. Divya befriends a compatriot on Facebook who offers them his house on rent. It's a beautiful old bungalow in an upscale locality and also affordable. But there is a twist – the house has no windows.

George Orwell painted a dark world of duality. What was science fiction once, is a reality now. We live in voyeuristic times - where we allow perfect strangers into our bedrooms but can hardly recognize our own family. The concept of personal space gains a new dimension as we don masks after masks to suppress our true feelings and thoughts. Sadism, perversion, eccentricities, love, affection, humor... they all are a part of us. We choose what we ultimately become.

Hindi | India
Fiction | 150 mins

Available for a World Premiere

This is a Bollywood noir set in a lawless town under the command of an extravagant chemist, where the death of his ex-wife starts off the longest night in the life of a dazed ex-cop Kalicharan. Armed with his questionably odd assistant, and his flask filled to the brim, he has only one night to find the one who murdered the love of his life. He does have a list of suspects but Kalicharan's delusions prevent him from trusting himself. Meanwhile, he is haunted not only by his past but also by a mysterious foe from the better days with his wife. His bottomless flask and the trauma of his wife lead us through a psychedelic non-linear journey through the night that explores the multiple facets of love.

Vincent, a 10 year old boy, steals a GoPro Camera kept for surveillance in a local provision store, aspiring to make a cinema. Along with his friends Rosy and Kishore, he begins shooting. But soon Rosy gets into an argument with the boys as they mock her looks. She leaves the shoot mid-way leaving Vincent's plans astray. A sense of guilt takes over him and he decides to return or abandon the camera. Their attempts to abandon the camera fails and they end up getting caught by some men in his neighbourhood. As the camera's control changes hands, it becomes an instrument for privacy intrusion and begins to instigate violence. The boys get caught on the wrong side of these actions and end up with an irrecoverable loss. This film is entirely shot on a GoPro and the story is narrated entirely from the perspective of the camera.

The epidemic of farmers' suicide in rural India has hit young Sandhya Kamble's family hard. Both of her parents have fallen victim to crop failure due to genetically modified seeds, leaving fourteen year old Sandhya to live with her abusive uncle in Mumbai. In spite of her ability to cope with her past through a love of words and poetry instilled in her by her mother, Sandhya finally strikes back at her uncle, which lands her in a juvenile home until she turns eighteen. In the juvenile home, Sandhya is forced to confront her deeply emotional past through drama workshops. The sessions are led by Vivek Singh, who struggles with a failing marriage and an unfulfilled acting career. His experiential approach personalizes the lessons for Sandhya, which helps her to take control of her narrative and emotions, while also giving Vivek a fresh perspective on how to reconnect with his family.

Bank-teller Freud (38) wakes up one day with a horse's tail. Convinced that it is connected to his dreams, he meets an elderly oracle who prophesizes that he is slowly becoming a horse. When he tells his mathematics professor of how he dreamt of a horse with no tail, he is told it represents a forgotten woman from his past. An astrologer interprets his dream as impotence. Is he becoming a eunuch? Piecing together the puzzle, Freud is visited by the woman from his dream. She is the spirit of the rainbow, Van Ga, who helps him reach the parallel world of his childhood through a well. He is transported to the forgotten world of a little girl (Neeli) with whom he'd promised to jump into the well, grow wings and fly away, like Neeli, their Goddess. To this day, Neeli waits in the well. But Freud is now a 38-year-old man with a horse's tail.

Set in the serene hills of Nainital, this is the story of Jagjivan and Suru, a story which had begun seventy years ago, from the very first moment he had looked at her. They have been happily married for more than half a century. The only thing that mars their near perfect existence is Suru's illness. Like many elderly people, Suru suffers from dementia. During these episodes, her mind reverts to living in her distant past.

Late one night, a thief enters their home to steal a simple old heater and everything changes. What starts as a confrontation between the couple and the thief, develops into a friendship of sorts. The relationship between the thief and Suru evolves, bonding over their shared love of Urdu poetry. One evening, the thief recites one of his favorite poems to Suru. But after listening to it, Suru falls silent and her smile disappears. Now Jagjivan has only one aim – to bring back Suru's magical smile.

Lust

English | India
Fiction | 69 mins

Available for an International Premiere

From eternity to eternity lust is the house of the devil and God, residing sometimes placidly, sometimes turbulently. Therein lies the story of humankind. Lust is a mythical dialogue between consciousness and ego. Ego in the form of two women question their consciousness about the need and necessity of lust. Consciousness in the form of a storyteller takes the two women through to their stories, justifying lust. The movie is three stories from the past, the present and the future. The storyteller weaves the tales real and surreal seamlessly till it is one harmonious blend. The movie raises questions yet answers none. The answers are for the audience to give.

Manaroopu is the first narcissistic personality disorder film in Kannada language which showcases a reunion of five friends who had parted their ways after college to pursue post-graduation. They presume that the reunion will bring back memories of their past after each of them has already settled in their respective professions. To celebrate their memories together as friends and to turn a reunion into a more exciting one, they decide to go to the dense forests of the Western Ghats. They are excited that such a unique get-together would give them an opportunity to unwind their past as college friends. Their trip is aimed at many angles. They prefer going to Karadi Guhe (Bear cave) instead of sharing old memories through juxtaposing friendship, love, pranks and even hatred besides discussing each other's future plans.

This is a jaw-dropping thriller of these group of friends, trapped and struggling to come out of Karadi Guhe.

Chandri is a girl who cannot speak or hear anything. But she has kept her hopes alive to go to school. She wants to feel equal to her brother who is able to hear everything. But the school refuses to admit her. Bassakka, her mother, ignores Chandri. She has kept her deafness a secret from their relatives and she has always encouraged her son to go to school, showing him love and care.

It discourages Chandri and makes her feel alone. She feels isolated. When Akshatha, an Indian sign language interpreter, enters into her life, a miracle happens. However, her mother Bassakka has a greater social stigma toward sign language than deafness.

Will Chandri overcome all these barriers and re-join school? Will Bassakka allow her daughter to learn sign language?

This story is an attempt to throw light on a hearing and speech impaired girl's core emotions and tries to illustrate all the characters through her eyes to meet her fundamental right.

A Doot Kavya (messenger poem) is an ancient, Sanskrit poetic form which deals with the delivery of letters. The most popular example of this is Kalidasa's Meghadootam (Cloud-Messenger) which traces the journey of a letter written by an exiled lover. Having no other way of sending the letter, the protagonist in the poem asks a cloud to be his messenger. My eponymous film is inspired by Kailidasa's poem. The film has symbolic motifs, an oblique reinterpretation of the genre of messenger poems.

The film has grown out of a series of workshops and experiences – mixed with the love for letters, poetry, Calcutta and stories of lost love. It is my aspiration that the medium becomes the message – that the 'Cloud Messenger' may carry the cinematic experience of communion to people looking for other souls – with messages that come from unknown faraway places but are yet so close to their own hearts.

Mou is a quiet housewife stuck in an unhappy marriage with her husband, Bikramjit. For years, she has held her tongue and served him, and in return, he has been ungrateful and rude. Mou and Bikram take a trip to their bungalow in the country. What starts out as a normal night takes a strange turn when an unexpected visitor shows up. Mou and Bikram give the visitor hospitality, and as Mou talks to this newcomer, she begins to realize that there is more to life than her selfish husband and unhappy marriage. The events of the night unwind alarmingly--one person becomes a murderer while another becomes alive for the first time in years. Mou is faced with a decision when the morning comes, and her entire world changes.

The story is about the struggle and sacrifices of two women – Jeevee and Bhoori, who live in Mor Doongri, a male dominated hamlet of south Rajasthan.

Jeevee wants to save her 14 year old daughter Pinkee from the ancient custom of Nata and give her higher education in the city. (Nata is a traditional practice where a man or a woman can opt out of his/her present wedlock and seek another partner by paying specified amount of money. Women who practice this cannot keep any relationship with their previous husband and children).

Bhoori, who was married in childhood, has already been through the ancient custom of Nata five times. Now she wants to get out of it and settle with a taxi driver.

Pinkee feels lonely after her mother leaves her practicing Nata. Her life becomes full of pain in the absence of her mother. So she decides to bring her back home with a desperate bid.

The last horrific nuclear war irradiated everything at the global level, causing a mass extinction and destroying biodiversity. The impact of the calamity was so great that it has obliterated human race along with the vast majority of species. Nearly more than two decades post holocaust, nuclear smoke is gradually clearing and the flora is slowly regenerating itself. In a wasteland far from the explosion region, a small group of the last set of survivors live under harrowing condition leading life akin to primitive men. Adversely affected by the chemical toxicity, they suffer through morphological changes in the body, dreadful skin conditions, loss of speech and mental deterioration. The life and death struggle for food turns some into barbarians feeding on anything for survival. One man's nobility restores in the rest the quality of being humane.

This film is inspired by a significant experiment in parapsychology conducted in Russia once upon a time. It was observed that a person makes three psychological journeys, thirty seconds before death. The first two will be journeys into the happiest and safest moments in their life. The third will be a fulfilment of an unaccomplished wish. A person is said to succumb to death only after this wish fulfilment. Here is an attempt to connect this observation with life of Thichanathur Muthuvelamma who was a Devadasi. The film also aspires to resurrect Centami which is considered to be a living fossil among languages. The film is thirty seconds before the death of Thichanathur Muthuvelammal.

Dare To Surf

Bengali | Bangladesh
Fiction | 111 mins

Available for a World Premiere

In a small beach town in Bangladesh, Ayesha and Sohel break out of social prohibitions and violent oppositions from their poverty-ridden families to become successful surfers. Unlike other boys and girls, they are trained by the first self-made Bangladeshi surfer, Amir. This unusual phenomenon in the surfing world gets international attention from the surfing community and documentary filmmakers. They start getting money for surfing. This generates jealousy, squabbles and power tussles in the small town. Surfing brings newfound fame and glory to Sohel, which leads him to get derailed and seek an extravagant, reckless lifestyle in the capital city. He goes through a failed relationship with an Australian filmmaker Esther. On the other hand, Ayesha, ironically, has to suffer through a forced marriage and a life of misery because of her 'prohibited' love for surfing. Their passion for surfing later reunites them. They come together again, and this leads to a resurgence of enthusiasm for surfing in their small beach town.

Oththa Seruppu size 7 (Single Slipper size 7) is set in current day Chennai. A middle-aged man Masilamani, a security guard at a popular sports and recreation club, is being questioned as a murder suspect while his terminally ill young son waits outside the investigation room. Throughout the film, he is the only actor seen on screen, while other characters are only voices that interact with him. Masilamani, an eccentric and an emotional wreck, talks in riddles, back and forth, provoked by visual or audio stimuli in the physical space around him. His strange tale with moments of unexpected comedy and sudden displays of wit leaves us questioning who he really is, what he has done and if he deserves the punishment that is staring him in the face.

The phenomenon of coming-of-age in popular culture has always been represented by physical transformation. This is true, for while the mind is playing catch up, the body emphatically takes over. This coming-of-age story is set in an era which is probably referred to by the millennials as 'ancient'. In an age today, where not just your average Joe, but even intimate lives of celebrities are played on big screens, the film places us in times which is bereft of this media overload. It is a time when TV was luxury and only one family owned one in a residential complex. This was when watching TV together was a social event. This is the 80s, and there is no cable and no digital networks. A teenager in this era, trapped in a physical and chemical rejig within him is not just a dilemma, but a journey of self-discovery.

Raktham

The Blood

Telugu | India
Fiction | 126 mins

Available for a World Premiere

Exploitation of the proletariat by the capitalist bourgeoisie has been a triggering factor for the greatest social revolutions across the globe, right from El Porfiriato in Mexico to the Great Proletarian Cultural Revolution in China. India is no stranger to revolutions as well. Social revolutionaries belonging to the extreme 'left' have played a significant role in keeping the flame of revolutionary change alive. The question that has plagued us generation after generation has been – Are violence and killing for 'social revolution' justified? How is killing for revolution different from murder? These questions which engulf Anand when he is on a morally tasking mission is the core of the film Raktham.

Rickshaw Girl

English | Bangladesh
Fiction | 115 mins

Available for a World Premiere

Daring and determined, 14-year-old Naima longs to earn money for her poor Bangladeshi family, but her unrivalled artistic talent is of little use. When her ailing father is at risk of losing his prized bicycle rickshaw to loan sharks, Naima cleverly disguises herself as a boy and drives the rickshaw herself. When Naima crashes the rickshaw, she threatens the family's sole livelihood. Heartbroken, she makes a number of futile attempts to raise money for repair, all the while battling societal and family pressures faced by most young Bangladeshi girls. When everything fails, she bravely slips away to a repair shop to offer her artistic services in exchange for repairs on her father's rickshaw. Naima is surprised to find that the shop owner is a woman battling gender prejudice. When the shop is closed by corrupt officials, Naima finds an unconventional and transcendental solution to her problems.

Salam Madarsa Hindustani

Hindi | India, Qatar
Fiction | 90 mins

Available for a World Premiere

The story revolves around two kids - Ali and Imran – both of them eight years old and studying at a Madarsa. They befriend a rag picker, Bantu, who is also eight years old, while playing football at the ground after their school. The two kids now want Bantu to study along with them. Maulvi notices them playing together and goes to Bantu's father to convince him to let his son study at the Madarsa.

Later, the same evening when Shahid, Maulvi's son, reaches home he cannot find his father anywhere. He then starts looking for his father in the village. The Madarsa is shut for a few days due to Maulvi's absence. The two kids run to Bantu's house because they do not see him for some days. They find the door to Bantu's house locked.

Bantu has been missing now from the village and the people start blaming Maulvi and the Madarsa for this incident.

Hindi | India, USA

Documentary | 107 mins Available for an International Premiere

The documentary follows a troupe of theatre actors staging a play – Amrit Haran (Nectar Plunder) on the origin myth of Hinduism, Samudra Manthan, at Kumbh Mela, the world's largest congregation of religious pilgrims and a performance space for artists. Kumbh Mela derives its name from two sources. One being the fact that the festival is held according to the astrological sign Kumbh (Aquarius), and second being the associated Hindu legend which tells the story of a battle between the Devas (benevolent deities) and Asuras (malevolent demigods) for the nectar drink of immortality. During the churning of the ocean, Amrita was produced and placed in a Kumbh (pot). To prevent the asuras from seizing the Amrita, a divine carrier flew away with the pot. He stopped at four places where the Kumbh Mela is celebrated. Today, it's a site of mass pilgrimage in which millions of Hindus gather to bathe in the holy river over a two-month period. The primary focus of this film is understanding the symbolism intrinsic in the play and finding its resonance at the Mela. It's an investigation into why this ancient story penetrated the deep psyche of Indian people and created a human gathering of such scale and magnitude.

Kailash Satyarthi has spent his lifetime rescuing kids from slavery, and was awarded the Nobel Peace Prize for his work in 2014. His organization, Bachpan Bachao Andolan (BBA) has rescued close to 100,000 kids in the last three decades and has influenced hundreds of traffickers to change their ways. Every day Kailash's organisation carries out several rescues of kids all over India. Their aim is to get the kids back to school in their home villages. However, even though he is recognized the world over for his work, it has not been an easy journey. An electrical engineer by profession, the seeds of becoming a human rights activist were sown inside Kailash as early as a five year old when he saw a small boy working with his cobbler father.

Showcasing the tussle between sustainability versus development in the context of rural India, Spring Thunder narrates the story of a uranium mining tender at the highest plateau of India. This area has rich flora and fauna with dense forests and various native communities live there. But the uranium mining tender is challenging the status quo in this place. A war is being fought between the 'gangs of miners' and the 'group of natives' in the region. The heat of the ongoing war accelerates with the murder of a doctor from the tribe who studied medicine in Australia. His Australian girlfriend, Catherine, comes to take his place there and continue his work. The story traverses four decades of change in and around the forests, along with the increase in mining in the area. Local muscleman, Chunnu Pandey, manages to get the mining tender. The deforestation that is needed to start the mining process halts, with a conspiracy leading to a chain reaction of crime.

Vishnu Walawalkar, 70, runs the popular Saideep studio and is well known for passport photographs. Though he loves old style film cameras, he has begun using the digital camera. His wife Sulbha, 65, has been paralysed from legs down for the past year. Bedridden, she nevertheless keeps in touch with the outside world through T.V and social media. On his daily rounds, Walawalkar takes numerous photographs so that Sulbha can see what is going on in the world around them. They discuss these photographs in detail. Sulbha often tries to persuade him to share his work on the internet but he is reluctant. Two incidents however induce a change in his attitude. One, the behavior of people in connection with the martyrdom of Major Abhimanyu Naik, a local boy, who loses his life fighting the enemy in faraway Kashmir. Secondly, when a young female jokingly calls him 'Passport Perfect Grandpa'. This remark shakes him profoundly. This is not how he sees himself: a mere studio photographer. He is proud of his artistry with the still camera. This sets him on a path of self-discovery as well as a broader understanding of his place in the society.

Umformung - The Transformation

English, Hindi, Tibetan | India
Fiction | 126 mins

The film is about two parallel stories. One: a Buddhist monk is in search of inner truth that takes him away from the abode of his guru which is an idyllic monastery in mountains and brings him face to face with prostitutes in a city brothel. Parallel to this runs the story of a female builder in a big city who believes that life is all about power, greed and manipulation. She does everything in her life with a need for vengeance, the motivation for which is vague. The past of both the monk and the woman transform them with explosive consequences.

It's 17th of March 1996. The Wills Cricket World Cup Final between Australia and Sri Lanka is about to commence at the Gaddafi Stadium in Lahore, Pakistan. Meanwhile, in Colombo, a couple boards a bus carrying a cardboard box. They are joined by a young couple that's eloping, two elderly government servants, a very sick grandmother and her grandson returning home to a dying grandfather attacked by a wild elephant, a street magician, two Buddhist monks, a group of school children, a handsome gentleman, an overweight woman and a cricket enthusiast among other passengers. They take off on a long night's journey. The seemingly peaceful bus ride shifts its pace when it enters a chase with a Defender jeep. An accident unexpectedly reveals the contents of the cardboard box: a dead infant, promising the passengers a journey unlike any they have taken before.

Sanjay Mondal & Group is a bunch of kids and youths living in Tangra, a notorious slum of Kolkata, making music out of waste materials. In 2010, the group had reached the grand finale of 'India's Got Talent' and moved the audience by their sheer musical aptitude. Group leader Sanjay Mondal, an ex-gangster in his early thirties, dreams that the performances will enable these children, give them to access education, health and a dignified life. But at the moment they face an uncertain future as musicians and also confront violent, exploitative and degrading social conditions that wants to pin them down. The film explores Sanjay's unique struggle to 'recycle' garbage and his life while wrenching recognition from a society that has always considered them as social waste.

The village of Islampura hasn't seen rain in five years. Both Mother Nature and the Government somehow manages to neglect this place. In spite of communal disharmony and riots witnessed many years ago, and the persistent rift between the two communities, unlike its name it is populated by both Hindus and Muslims. Paucity of water has caused a serious concern in the village. The village folk are at loggerheads with communal differences. They are still feeling the bite of barrenness but are not able to address it. The children of the village are beyond the realm of understanding the religious and communal difference. They show unparalleled maturity and devise a plan to bring water back to the village. While the village is at the brink of another communal outbreak, the kids outshine all the elders by their efforts and successfully bring back the gift of life.

Fiction | 90 mins

Available for a World Premiere

In Vidarbha, the eastern region of Maharashtra, the period between Diwali and Holi is when farmers retire from the fields and seek entertainment and recreation. A form of 'zhaadi-patti' theatre, referred to as Zollywood, takes over — a Rs. 40 cr. industry, seemingly springs up overnight, with daily performances of local Vidarbha actors and writers, till the arrival of spring. Raja and Deepak are two such theatre owners, who run a 'press' (Production Company) together. However, because of Raja's dalliances with one of his actresses at the expense of their work, Deepak and veteran zhaadi-patti actor Narayan Rao part ways with him and form their own press. As time passes, fortunes swing and lives change, both for better and for the worse, but the show never stops for these zhaadi-patti artists.

This is the story of an Indian citizen who instead of seeking her primary education even after seventy years of independence is walking miles from her home to school, not to receive education but to find some food.

The short film 10 Ka 4 revolves around the character of a seven year old girl who is trying to make a living for her family by selling stationary outside a high-class English medium school. The film is also trying to show the two different strata in the society, and how one of them is vigorously fighting to reach where the others are. The film also sheds light on child labour and the Right to Education, two most prominent issues in today's society.

Aunty Sudha Aunty Radha

Hindi | India
Documentary | 49 mins

Three hours outside Delhi, there is a village called Lahra. This film follows two widowed sisters, aged 86 and 93, who have retired to this village, whose days are spent with their adopted family of domestic help. With a rare acceptance of old age, they spend their time gossiping, watching T.V., soaking in the sun and bonding with the help in a hearty sharing of community life. The film has a facile, easy going tone that gazes lightly at the passing of days. And yet, from this light-heartedness, emerge lessons of courage and perseverance, of camaraderie and care giving, of destiny and faith, and the most significant one: when we engage in conversations about death, we improve the quality of life.

Bebaak

Dying Wind In Her Hair

English, Hindi, Urdu | India

Fiction | 20 mins

Fatin is an architecture student from a lower middle class Muslim family, who goes for an interview to seek scholarship from a religious education trust, along with her father, Zaheer. During the interview, she gets reprimanded by the interviewing officer, Niyaz Sheikh for not following the religious tenets meant for women. At the tomb below the trust office, she meets two young girls who are students at the local Madrassa. One of them, Rafiya has a fixed notion of being a 'good girl' by following the set rules of the religion. The other, Shireen seeks freedom from the same. Fatin has to choose between reinforcing Niyaz's misogynist dogma and live with the burden of her own muddled morality or stand up for what she feels is right. In the process, Shireen, who largely represents girls who are systematically indoctrinated into losing their identity, becomes a catalyst of change for Fatin.

Blood Buddhas

English | India
Documentary | 28 mins

This is the story of reparation of ancient Indian antiquities from across the world. For centuries India has lost its antiquities to vandalism, colonialism and to terror financing. Only 2014 did these antiquities start coming back. The film is shot in four countries and engages with parliamentarians, bureaucrats, activists and law enforcement of these countries.

India is one of the oldest civilization and its antiquities are the prized possessions of museums across the globe. In fact, there are more Indian antiquities in foreign museums than there are in India. For the longest time, the world brushed aside this inconsistency and marveled at colonial heritage items littered across foreign museums.

This is a unique story where expat Indians are leading the way in informing the governments of suspect antiquities and going the distance to enable the Indian government to pursue these cases.

Eriyum Panikaadu

Burning Snowforest

Tamil | India
Fiction | 45 mins

Carl Jung once said that the assimilation of the fundamental insight that psychic life has two poles still remains a task for the future. The story revolves around an arranged marriage couple, the introspection of an individual in a span of twenty-four hours from the night before their wedding. The film tries to explore the absolute truth of human condition when a man unites with a women. It involves Jungian dualism as a controlling idea for the narrative. In short, the film is made up of moments that will be chopped off in a mainstream film where marriage is mostly portrayed as an event of colors and celebration. This film tries to do a microscopic study on various levels of conflicts between the couple Raghu and Sudha.

There is a unique art related to crime, patrolling, spying, smuggling, incursion, cross border activities and law enforcement. In general terms, forensic art refers to visualization, close approximation and facial identity of criminals. But in the dusty wastelands of Western India, crimes are complex because they deal with the international border of India and Pakistan. This film is about a select few rustic folks traditionally called Pagi. Generally known as gatekeepers, Pagis are a different stock when it comes to the sandy frontiers. These are patriotic people who keep a hawk-eye on the country's borders. Pagi's razor-sharp observations can help in details like the number of infiltrators, the time they came in, their weight and if they were carrying any luggage. This is very helpful in tracking any criminal activity, making it largely helpful for investigative agencies. They rely heavily on this sharp and intelligent group of people.

Ganga River Eternal

Hindi, Sanskrit | India
Documentary | 10 mins

Available for a World Premiere

Ganga: River Eternal is a short musical art film which celebrates the sacred beauty of the magnificent River Ganga through the convergence of traditional Indian music and dance. India is one of the last surviving cultures in the world that still worships her rivers, and the meeting of classical dance forms with ancient Sanskrit verse and poetry set to semi-classical music evokes reverence for the gift of Maa Ganga.

From the Kumbh Mela at Prayag (the world's largest gathering of human beings), to the Himalayan foothills in Shivpuri; from the ghats of the world's oldest living city, Varanasi, to a secluded island in the middle of the Ganga, at Devprayag – the film captures the various moods of India's most sacred river.

The Horse Rider

Hindi | India

Animation | 14 mins

Available for a World Premiere

On a train from Paris to Rotterdam, a strange encounter takes place and a story is told. A prince who feels suffocated with worldly affairs tries to break free by retiring to an unknown jungle. He gets fascinated by the beauty of nature and realizes the meaning of his true existence. In his journey he makes friends with a white horse which can run faster than sound. In his trance, he rides that horse throughout the jungle and tries to find happiness in small things. Roaming through the forest, he come across a herd of deer. The sight of the game evokes the hunter in him. In a split second he draws an arrow and shoots at it. Later, he sees her young ones lingering closer to the mother deer. In this moment of realization he rides his horse faster than the arrow and takes the arrow on himself.

Gulabi Lens

A Life In Pink

Hindi | India
Fiction | 18 mins

Available for a World Premiere

The story opens with newly married Ravi and Suman arriving at his single room house in Mumbai. Ravi is proud of the little nest he has built. Suman is wide eyed and slightly unsure of what will happen next. He's a mathematics teacher in a municipal school but also a closet poet. It is his imagination that makes his drab life interesting and fulfilling. But when he 'imagines' her at the magical window in their small home he listens to her saying that she wishes to be back home, away from him. This breaks his heart and confuses Suman. He doesn't understand the change in his behavior. But over the course of two days, we see them find the magic, a common language. We see them beginning to fall in love with each other.

The great city of Hyderabad came into existence because of river Musi. However, Musi is one of the most polluted rivers in the world today, with its waters even containing radioactive materials. The film tries to highlight the very real possibility of a massive water crisis that could strike Hyderabad in the near future. The film also highlights how development at the cost of nature is detrimental to the quality of life in a long run, even a threat to it. The nexus between the real estate mafias, corrupt governments and religion has brought this once mighty river to the verge of death.

Moluwa - The Adorable One is a documentary that endeavours to explore the interesting as well as some unique facets of Satra Nagari (Temple Town) Barpeta, Assam (India). The film opens with Sri Gokul Pathak, a nonagenarian Gandhian and freedom fighter whose leftist leanings is inspired from the Bhagavad-Gita. Beautifully threaded by various folk songs, art and culture, the documentary also makes a sincere attempt for an unbiased take on the age-old restriction of entry of women into Barpeta's renowned 'Kirtan-Ghar'. The five hundred year old Assamese folk song Naukhel Geet (boat race song) builds up the crescendo to complete the poetic exposition of Barpeta.

The Other Half

Bengali | India
Fiction | 15 mins

A woman and a man are declared joint winners for their presentation in the finale of a five day long business workshop in a city away from their home. The film traces the life of these two individuals on the night they return home. The film shows contradiction between the lives of these two people - how the man is celebrated for his victory by his family while on the other hand the woman, even though she won as well, is not even talked about but made to feel guilty for her absence from home for those five days. It depicts the privileges the man gets on his return while the woman is expected to manage all the pending household chores even after going through the same gruelling work schedule.

Son Rise

English, Hindi | India
Documentary | 48 mins Available for a International Premiere

Set in rural Haryana, a strongly patriarchal state bordering India's capital, New Delhi- rampant female feticide has led to the eerie absence of girls in hundreds of villages. This sex-ratio imbalance has resulted in the dangerous increase of unmarried men, 'bride' trafficking and an unprecedented number of crimes against women. In these unlikeliest corners, the filmmaker finds ordinary men, putting up an extraordinary fight to change the narrative on gender inequality. From a forward-thinking village chief, fighting for women to enter the male-dominated arena of local-politics to a farmer who, in an arranged marriage, defies society by marrying a gang rape survivor.

A superstar comedian of the 1990s, Hasmukh Lal's name was synonymous with laughter and joy. Today he is a lonely, bitter and a frustrated man. His wife and daughter have left him. His neighbours are fed up of him. The children of the society are terrified of him. So when Hasmukh's 'peace' is disturbed by a family moving in next door, he steps out of his house to give them a piece of his mind. But in the middle of his rant, he suddenly stops, silenced by a little girl peering up at him from behind her parents. The little girl, Riya, innocent and sweet, reminds Hasmukh of his own daughter. She is so happy and full of life, which is ironical, since she is suffering from leukemia. The Comedian is a film about the relationship between a grouchy old man who has forgotten how to smile and a little girl, who smiles even through adversity.

The Golden Girl of Indian athletics – Swapana Barman. The girl born with a feature normally looked down upon as a deformity, having six fingers in each leg. Having an extra finger inconvenienced the use of any normal running shoe for her. She belonged to a poor family of four siblings. And she overcame the pain of running barefoot. In spite of these odds, she entered sporting arena with the sole purpose of getting a suitable job, a job that would be able to support and sustain her family. With supporting parents and helpful coaches she joined a sporting club in Ghoshpara in Jalpaiguri and then moved to Kolkata. With an assurance of a job even if she came fifth in the trials, she put her everything – her body, soul and mind, into her training and became a heptathlete. Overcoming all the drawbacks that life threw at her, she won the gold medal in Asian Games 2015.

Apathy from the world is certain when one chooses detachment. The relationship between a father and a son is a bond of two different people whose perceptions may vary. This is the story of a son who wants to break away from the materialistic world. He wants to leave behind everything and merge with nature to find the truth of life. The father cannot fathom the seeds of these thoughts in his son's minds. The son tries many times to convey his aversion to the materialistic world. He tries to convey his love for the mountains. But the father holds their relationship as the base for the decision. The son does not let the relation dampen his decision. He chooses the mountains. He chooses to disappear. He chooses his self, his own voice. He chooses detachment.

The Elephant God

English, Gujarati, Hindi, Marathi

| India

Documentary | 29 mins

Available for a World Premiere

A documentary featuring Nakul and his family is about how they celebrate the Elephant God's arrival every year at their house for three days. Despite being a Jain by religion, he loves having the Ganpati idol at home and celebrating Him along with the annual ritual of his own religion Samvatsari. It is a difficult process for him and his family, but as they have been doing this for many years, they love the idea of celebrating the Ganesh festival with their near and dear ones.

Vande Mataram: A Dance Tribute is a musical short film that explores the beauty of Indian classical dance forms performed by young dancers aged nine to sixteen years. Shot in the ancient palaces of Rajasthan and thousand-year-old temples of Khajuraho in India, the film is set to a riveting new rendition of 'Vande Mataram' – India's national song. The Sanskrit lyrics of the song are given form through the symbolism in the dances, making this piece a delightfully poetic tribute to the motherland through music, dance and visual aesthetics.

Wonderland

English, Hindi | India
Fiction | 22 mins

Available for a World Premiere

Wonderland is a hard-hitting contemporary dance musical, a thought provoking psychological drama exploring the changing dynamics of relationships in modern India. The film explores the internal turmoil of its central characters who appear normal at the surface but are fractured by their unresolved childhood memories that go on to dictate the choices of their complicated relationships and the archetypal patterns that they are bound to. Since the central character is a choreographer, key moments of the protagonist's life appear as dark, intimate dance compositions. The struggle of a man's moral integrity versus his biological inevitability and how he finds closure to breaking his patterns are powerfully conveyed through the medium of contemporary dance.

This 22 minute short is intended as a pilot: a pitch for a full-length feature film so as to justify the depth of each of its characters and allow the viewer a first of its kind story-telling in cinema through the powerful medium of physical theatre and contemporary dance.

World War 2 In Color

English | India
Documentary | 10 mins

Available for a World Premiere

They were not just fighting for their freedom, but the freedom of the whole world. As the 75th anniversary of the end of World War 2 approaches, the contributions of the British Indian Army and Commonwealth Armies still remain in the shadows. The British Indian Army was the largest volunteer force in history, yet they are left out of western history books. We interview World War 2 veterans, Holocaust survivors, Indians who lived in Europe and local Europeans who remember the Indian soldiers who liberated them. They fought side by side with New Zealand Maoris, Gurkhas and African Americans, who were also fighting for freedom at home. World War Two obsessed collectors wear memorabilia. The importance of remembrance is discussed by their grandchildren against the backdrop of today's resurgence of Neo-Nazis and Neo-Fascism.

YKT Mumbai

English | India
Documentary | 45 mins

Yakshagana is an ancient theatre form that combines dance, music, dialogues, costumes, make-up and stage techniques with a unique narrative style. It is mainly practiced in the coastal districts and Malanadu region of Karnataka, India. YKT Mumbai explores the life behind Yakshagana stage performances and takes the audience into the world of one such group doing these performances in Mumbai. The stage performances of Yakshagana, which generally run from dusk to dawn, are mostly based on the stories derived from Indian mythological scriptures like Ramayana, Mahabharatha, Purana etc. We enter this world with an urge to understand what drives them to keep this ancient performing art alive and vibrant in an urban concrete jungle like Mumbai.

Disclaimer

NFDC Film Bazaar is a B2B platform aimed at promotion of South Asian films to an international and national market. Viewing Room at NFDC Film Bazaar is a paid platform provided to filmmakers to individually promote their film to international film festivals, world sales agents and buyers. This platform shall neither be construed as a commercial exploitation platform for the films in any manner nor shall it be construed that NFDC owns any exploitation rights of such films being promoted on this platform.

Participation on this platform is confirmed on receipt of completed application submission and payment and is not on a merit basis. The Film Bazaar Recommends (FBR) section is curated by an external consultant from amongst the submitted films to the Viewing Room for purposes of highlighting contemporary styles of filmmaking. NFDC does not guarantee the authenticity and credibility of the filmmakers exhibiting the films via Viewing Room.

The films submitted are either in the rough cut or claim to be completed films. The final cut or content of the films may change after promotional exhibition via the Viewing Room, at the sole discretion of the respective filmmakers. All content of the films is provided on an “AS IS” or “AS AVAILABLE” basis and NFDC does not control or vet user generated content for accuracy.

NFDC does not make any representation or warranty of any kind, express or implied, in relation to the films, its completeness, suitability, availability, accuracy, reliability, its contents or any other information made available in the Films or in the Viewing Room and any reliance you place on the same shall be strictly at your own risk.

The opinions, beliefs and viewpoints expressed by the filmmakers through their individual films are their own and do not reflect the opinions, beliefs and viewpoints of NFDC as an organization and NFDC does not endorse and cannot be held responsible for the same. NFDC shall not be held responsible for any content, views or opinions expressed by individual filmmakers via their films promoted at the Film Bazaar.

NFDC shall not be held responsible if the films are not in conformity with the applicable laws including laws relating to intellectual property, racism, blasphemy, defamation and privacy and NFDC hereby disclaims all liability arising from exhibition of the films via the Viewing Room.
